THE KEEKO RANGE KEEKO SOLVES

The immobility brought on by long hours spent sitting in the office, results in many problems. Keeko makes it possible to move even without getting up, to make small or large movements in complete freedom. Moreover, it was not only designed for a desk job: Today, we interact more and more with technological objects that are held in our hands for long times resulting in increased fatigue of the arms as well as the spine and neck. The seat's complete system of self-regulations favours, supports, and accompanies a person's movements. Making work more natural and relaxing, no matter a person's posture. The leverage system is reduced to a minimum: The seat almost works by itself, in complete simplicity. The body/ aluminium plate is likewise reduced to the extreme, making Keeko a surprisingly light product, easy to move as well as more ecologically sustainable.
